

DYNAMITE ROCKS BRONX COURT, PUTS JAIL IN A PANIC

Judge, Almost Blown From Bench, Cites Building Workers.

A dynamite blast at 11:50 o'clock today in building operations adjoining the Bronx County offices at Tremont and Arthur Avenues, hurled a ton of dirt against the building, rocked the structure, broke four windows, nearly precipitated a panic in the jail, almost knocked Judge Louis D. Gibbs off his bench and showered District Attorney Edward Glennon with glass. As a result three men in charge of the construction work were ordered to appear in court on Friday morning to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt.

The blast was the climax of friction between those engaged in the building operation and the Bronx officials. The operation is on the Mullan estate, upon which property a number of apartment houses will be erected. The first trouble came when a steam shovel made it impossible to hold court. Judge Gibbs ordered that the shovel be kept idle until court had adjourned each day, and that all other disturbing noises be muffled.

This had been complied with until blasting was started to-day. Several small shots had been set off, but they had not materially disturbed the court or other county officials. But just before noon came the big one.

District Attorney Glennon was seated at his desk when the two windows nearest him landed on his head and shoulders, but they had been blown into such infinitesimal pieces that fortunately he was not seriously cut. Prisoners in the jail shouted in fear.

Judge Gibbs all but went to the floor. He immediately sent Court Officer Edward McMinemum to bring in those responsible for the blast. Three men were brought before Judge Gibbs. They were Robert Arcolio, blaster, who lives at No. 648 East 161st Street; Tony De Francisco, blast foreman of No. 648 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, and Arthur Dellatore, partner of the construction company, who lives at No. 82 Christie Street.

After a conference, the men were ordered to report on Friday.

BOYS COMMITTED MOST OF CRIMES HERE LAST YEAR

76 Per Cent. of Male Offenders Were Less Than Twenty-One.

Figures contained in the seventeenth annual report of the Children's Aid Society, made public at the annual meeting of the trustees yesterday, showed that most of the crimes committed last year were the work of boys 7 per cent of the male offenders brought before New York courts being less than twenty-one years of age, and that the society spent $64,000 on special work among the boys out of a total expenditure in behalf of the children of this city of $682,000.

The society is building this year a new boy's club house as an annex to one of its school centres in the Hell's Kitchen district.

During the past year homes were found for 265 children; 4,900 sickly or deformed children daily attended the society's special schools and were given 288,239 nutrition meals. At eight dental clinics 2,821 pupils were treated at a cost of $2,500, while more than 8,000 children were examined at the medical bureau, and 25,000 were benefited by the fresh air fund.

For Americanization work and health work the society expended over $290,000.

Of $682,000 expended during the last year $578,000 was provided by bequests.

At the annual meeting of the society yesterday, William Church Osborn was re-elected President, Edwin G. Merrill Treasurer, and Charles Loring Brace, Secretary. Carl Van Doren, Theodore Douglas Robinson, Col. Arthur Wood, Percy H. Fyne 2d and Elliott C. Bacon were re-elected trustees to serve until 1923.
